INTER-GENERATIONAL WRITING WORKSHOPS

Explore memories and personal stories in a new inter-generational writing workshop. Teens, seniors and women of all ages are invited to engage in inspiring writing exercises, while making connections between previous generations and present-day life.

Workshops begin in March; new groups forming ongoing.

This exciting new program is open to female Jewish seniors, teens and those in between.

Suggested Donation $36
for four workshops (virtual or in-person)

The workshops are led by Mindy Rubenstein, a longtime journalist and founding editor of Nishei Ora (Women of Light) magazine.

In this supportive community, participants can find and appreciate what is strong and powerful about their unique voices. Students can also expect to improve their writing skills, but the most impactful lessons often come from building unique inter-generational relationships.
